UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
STATISTICAL REPORTING SERVICE
Washington 25, D.C.

June 16, 1965

TO: Foster E. Mohrhardt, Director
National Agricultural Library

FROM: Harry C. Trelogan, Administrator

SUBJECT: Uniform Geographic Codes for SRS

A copy of the Geographic Code System which will be used for processing SRS data is forwarded herewith for your information.

The SRS system is directly comparable, i.e., no code conversion necessary, with the system used by the Bureau of the Census at the region, state, and county levels. Special SRS requirements, such as crop reporting districts, also are provided for, as are cities and standard metropolitan statistical areas.

This standardized system enables SRS to process its data more efficiently through automatic data processing equipment. Any agencies using SRS data in machine form will find that this uniformity of geographic codes simplifies their uses of SRS output. Where necessary, the SRS code may be machine-converted to any other geographic code for the same geographic entities.

Any questions or comments about the SRS system may be directed to Mrs. Stevens, extension 7545. Requests for an additional copy or two may be directed to the Secretary, Crop Reporting Board.

INTRODUCTION

As the amount of agricultural data punched into cards or recorded on other machine media increases, the establishment of uniform coding systems becomes increasingly important. This geographic code system, approved for use in the Agency, is one of the systems designed to meet such needs.

At the present time, there are two operational phases in which geographic code systems of one kind or another are used by the Agency, (1) Washington and Field Office programs for the machine processing of statistical data, and (2) mailing lists (and related address plates) for gathering data or distributing reports. Recognizing the problems unique to some of the Field Office operations, this system accommodates the diverse needs of the Agency within the framework of a standard code system which uses the minimum amount of space compatible with these needs.

The system is numeric rather than alphabetic, because such a system is most useful when a variety of machine processing equipment is involved. It is based on codes developed by the Bureau of the Census, with the addition of codes developed specifically to meet the unique needs of the Agency. The system thus is directly comparable with Census data at both the state and county level.

The system is limited to the identification of specific geographic locations, e.g., state, crop reporting district, county, city. It is not designed to indicate simultaneously any auxiliary data which may be related to these locations, such as land use or type of farming operation. The system, therefore, is not intended to supersede auxiliary coding schemes such as those now used for June Enumerative Survey data on cultivated land, range land, large farm operations, urban farm operations, etc., nor any other auxiliary coding scheme applicable to information above and beyond geographic location.

Implementation of this system shall be in accordance with C. E. M. 1695.

Comments regarding the system should be directed to the Secretary, Crop Reporting Board, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

Introduction

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of various factors on the growth and development of the human body. The study is designed to provide a comprehensive overview of the physical changes that occur during the process of maturation.

The study is divided into two main sections. The first section, titled "Physical Growth," focuses on the changes in height, weight, and body composition. The second section, titled "Developmental Changes," examines the changes in the skeletal system, the endocrine system, and the reproductive system.

The study is based on a review of the literature and a series of experiments. The experiments were conducted on a group of healthy, young adults. The results of the study are presented in the following sections.

The first section, "Physical Growth," presents the results of the experiments on height, weight, and body composition. The results show that there is a significant increase in height and weight during the study period. The increase in body composition is also significant, particularly in the muscle mass.

The second section, "Developmental Changes," presents the results of the experiments on the skeletal system, the endocrine system, and the reproductive system. The results show that there are significant changes in the skeletal system, the endocrine system, and the reproductive system during the study period.

TITLE: Codes

SUBJECT: Uniform Geographic Code System

I. GENERAL: This C. E. M. establishes a uniform geographic coding system for use in the Agency in processing data, handling mailing lists, and other areas where the use of such codes is efficient or essential.

The system is a numeric one, since it is oriented towards data processing. As developed, the system is compatible with the Bureau of the Census codes.

II. DESCRIPTION OF STANDARD GEOGRAPHIC CODE SYSTEM:

A. State-Region Codes

The Bureau of the Census system of 2-digit codes, combining State and region in geographic sequence, has been adopted.

B. Crop Reporting District Codes

1. A system of 2-digit codes which, for most States, will reflect the district number as the first digit, followed by a zero, has been adopted. For those States in which the district numbers are differentiated by "A", "N", or "S", the second digit will be "1" or "2" to maintain the necessary distinction and provide the proper print sequence; Texas will use "96" and "97" to identify districts 10 N and 10 S. For Kansas, North Carolina, and Oklahoma, the code will provide the publication sequence desired by the respective States on the first digit, and reflect the actual district number on the second digit.

2. A system of 3-symbol alphanumeric codes designed to identify "special" districts needed for crop reporting purposes will be developed. These "special" districts will differ from crop reporting districts, and will include districts such as price, commercial vegetable, and cattle feeding. Any sub-districts required for these special districts will be assigned their sub-district numbers as suffixes to the special district codes.

C. County Codes

The Bureau of the Census system of 3-digit county codes, assigned to the counties within States in alphabetic sequence by county name, has been adopted. This system assures alphabetic sequence no matter what the county grouping might be.

D. Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area Codes

A system of 3-digit codes assigned to the SMSA's in alphabetic sequence by name has been adopted. At the present time, these codes are of no concern to the Field Offices.

E. City Codes

The Bureau of the Census system of 4-digit city codes, assigned to the cities within States in alphabetic sequence by city name, has been adopted.

III. IMPLEMENTATION: Effective use of data processing equipment capabilities for handling statistical data collected by the Agency is contingent upon the use of this uniform code system. The system, or portions thereof, shall be used to the degree necessary to promote maximum efficiency in the processing of survey data.

A. Use of the system is mandatory for all data identified by geographic information which is machine processed in Washington or in the Field Offices except for purely State reports where, even so, its use is strongly recommended.

B. Use of the system is mandatory for all mailing lists directly associated with machine processing of data.

C. Timing of implementation shall be at the earliest practicable time on existing programs. New programs shall automatically include the coding system.

D. Mailing lists - A separate directive(s) will be issued on conversion of mailing lists to include geographic and/or commodity codes and ZIP codes. It is advisable, therefore, to avoid any extensive conversion on ZIP codes until the use of geographic and commodity codes on address plates can be clarified. When new address plates are being cut for lists now coded, the geographic codes established by this C. E. M. should be used.

IV. GEOGRAPHIC CODE HANDBOOK: The complete SRS Geographic Code Handbook will include the State-region codes, the crop reporting district and county codes (listed by States with the counties listed by districts), the State and county codes (listed by States with the counties listed alphabetically and related to the crop reporting districts), the State and SRS city codes (listed by States with the cities listed alphabetically and related to both the county and the Post Office ZIP codes), and the standard metropolitan statistical area codes (listed alphabetically and related to the appropriate State, county, and SRS city codes). Initially, each Field Office will be supplied with two copies of the State-region codes, the standard metropolitan statistical area codes, and its own crop reporting district, county, and city codes.

V. FUTURE NEEDS: Problems associated with codes should be channeled through the Secretary, Crop Reporting Board, to maintain coordination of the system.

State Offices should submit their requirements for special district codes as soon as their needs can be determined.

State Offices that need extra sets of their portion of the Handbook, or need portions not distributed to them (pertaining to other States), may obtain them upon request.

Additional code systems, e.g., commodity, report, will be developed to meet other needs for uniform processing by the Agency.

Deputy Administrator

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the study. It highlights the need for a comprehensive understanding of the subject matter. The second part of the paper presents the methodology used in the study. It describes the data collection process and the statistical analysis performed. The third part of the paper discusses the results of the study. It presents the findings of the research and compares them with previous studies. The fourth part of the paper discusses the conclusions of the study. It summarizes the main findings and provides recommendations for future research.

STATE-REGION CODES

Note:-This is the Census system of 2-digit codes. In the South Atlantic Sub-Region, the State codes differ from those used previously because of the insertion of the District of Columbia.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be carefully documented to ensure the integrity of the financial data. This includes recording dates, amounts, and the nature of the transactions.

Secondly, the document highlights the need for regular reconciliation of accounts. By comparing internal records with external statements, discrepancies can be identified and corrected promptly. This process helps in preventing errors and fraud, ensuring that the financial statements are reliable.

Thirdly, the document stresses the importance of transparency and accountability. All financial activities should be clearly documented and accessible to relevant stakeholders. This not only builds trust but also facilitates the review and audit process.

Finally, the document concludes by stating that maintaining good financial practices is essential for the long-term success and sustainability of any organization. It encourages the implementation of robust financial controls and the adoption of best practices in financial management.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the transparency and accountability of the organization. This section also outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze data, ensuring that the information is reliable and up-to-date.

2. The second part of the document focuses on the implementation of these practices. It details the steps involved in setting up a robust system for data collection and analysis. This includes identifying the key areas of focus, selecting appropriate tools and technologies, and training staff to ensure they are equipped to handle the data effectively. The goal is to create a seamless process that allows for the efficient management of information.

3. The third part of the document addresses the challenges that may arise during the implementation process. It provides strategies to overcome common obstacles, such as resistance to change or limited resources. By anticipating these challenges and having a plan in place, the organization can ensure a smoother transition to the new system. This section also highlights the importance of ongoing communication and collaboration between all stakeholders involved.

4. The final part of the document concludes with a summary of the key findings and recommendations. It reiterates the importance of maintaining accurate records and the need for a systematic approach to data management. The document also provides a clear roadmap for the future, outlining the next steps and the long-term goals of the organization. This section serves as a call to action, encouraging all members of the organization to commit to the principles and practices outlined throughout the document.
